VALKEN TACTICAL THUNDER V DISTRACTION DEVICE

Designed to mimic sound distraction devices (flash bangs) used by military and law enforcement personnel, these reusable sound devices create a loud bang in order to distract your enemy allowing you to get the drop on them. These devices use 12g CO2 cartridges and one time use burst shells to produce such a loud bang. After inserting a CO2 cartridge, simply pull the pin and lift the spoon. This will break the seal on the CO2 cartridge. The empty shell immediately begins to fill with compressed CO2. Once maximum capacity is reached the shell will rupture with an approximate 130db "BANG"! These Thunder V's come in a variety of styles including: pineapple, dumbbell, cylinder B, and cylinder C shell for multitude of applications.

The Valken ATH Tactical Helmet is a popular helmet design used in active service, Hollywood, and airsoft games. The added protection of the ATH Tactical Helmet allows Airsoft players a bolder style of play. The real life version of this helmet style offers various benefits including protection against low to medium velocity shrapnel and debris, bump protection for urban, vehicle, armored, and airborne operations. The area around the ear is shaped to allow users the flexibility to use electronic hearing protection/enhancement, communications, or ballistic side up-armor. For Airsoft use, the helmet is made of polymer making it lightweight with a realistic look. The ATH Tactical Helmet provides users protection during indoor/MOUT/CQB environments in addition to guarding against BB hits at medium to extreme close range. The helmet is also designed to support mounted accessories. Most users commonly mount POV Cameras, lights/illuminators, IFF Markers (identification friend or foe), goggles, face pro, and dead rags. Compatibility with most aftermarket accessories with little or no modification.
